

Rochdale Branch of the Embroiderer's Guild Exhibition at the Coach House, Littleborough

Members of the Rochdale branch of the Embroiderer's Guild are currently holding an exhibition of their work at the Coach House, Littleborough. The exhibition was opened by the Mayor of Rochdale, Mohammed Zaman, on Saturday 7th April. It was very well attended and showcased the skills of the Guild members, showing what can be done with a needle and thread. And a lot of patience!

Anyone who is interested can visit the Coach House and see the pieces of work showing the different techniques of embroidery. If you are interested in taking up this traditional skill please come along - embroidery is very creative and a good way to relax whilst producing a beautiful result. And you might be lucky and find one of our members there who can explain the different stitches and effects. By bringing our work to show how embroidery can be enjoyed by all, regardless of age or ability, we hope to encourage interest and recruit new members. The exhibition runs until Sunday 5th May and the Coach House is open every day 11am - 4pm Monday to Saturday and 12pm - 3pm on Sundays. Entry to the exhibition is free and the Cherry Tree cafe is at hand should you be in need of refreshment.
