

Parbold Branch Open Day 2019

100 years ago the Bauhaus was established in Germany in 1919, and was a most influential force in post war art and design. The artists working there are still influencing our world today . So, with this in mind, Parbold branch used the Bauhaus Centenary as a linking theme for our open day

Leading up to this event on May 11th we had several 'hands on ' sessions where we experimented with techniques and design ideas. Our members produced a wide range of art and artefacts , some with a strong Bauhaus influence, for sale and exhibition, and which showed off their wonderful skills and ideas.

On the day we had traders in, selling everything a textile junkie could want, demonstrations of spinning, weaving, lace making, machine embroidery and hand stitched embroidery. Visitors were encouraged to 'have a go' at these different skills as well as learn from watching and listening.

Needless to say we had refreshments with wonderful cakes - essential for such events and proving we cake bake as well as sew!

The Parbold members are a real team who all worked hard to make everything run like clockwork and put on an excellent show.
